

Ballance Farm
Environment Awards®
Promoting Sustainable Farming and Growing

Call for nominations

Do you know someone who is a good steward of the land that deserves to be recognised?

Then nominate them for the Ballance Farm Environment Awards.

Farmers and growers can be nominated by others – providing they give their consent. The Awards are a way for farmers and growers to receive free and independent advice to help them improve the sustainability of their business. The programme is also a way of sharing positive stories with a wider audience.

A local committee member will contact the nominee to discuss the Ballance Farm Environment Awards programme. They will discuss the nominee's sustainability journey and help them to decide if they would like to be involved.

We aim not to put pressure on potential candidates – they may be excited to participate this year, or perhaps they would just like more information so they could join us in the future.
